

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A turbocharger comprising at least one turbine wheel supplied with exhaust gas from a combustion motor. The amount of gas supplied is determined by a fluid control arrangement to which an actuation device is assigned for generating a controlling movement for the fluid control arrangement. In addition, a transmitting mechanism for this movement comprising an adjusting device is presented by which the control movement may be adjusted.